

ABSTRACT

A method is described for laser welding of sintered materials, in which the laser weld is executed
5 with the addition of a weld material, the latter being adducted simultaneously to the welding step in the form of metal dusts, at a junction area between the parts to be joined (1, 2).

(Figure 1)